“Black History Month: An Annual Sankofa Moment”

What is meant by Sankofa?

The Origin

During the European-African slave trade, most slaves were primarily taken from Senegal, Gambia, Ghana, Nigeria, Sierra Leone and Benin before making their end journey to the “New World” or North America. Those Africans who were taken as slaves from these countries during the Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade were known as Akan, an ethnic group made up what ethnologist and historians call the Ivory Coast.

The Language

The Akan (Ghanaian) people have a richly diverse culture that translates into pictorial symbolism, similar to that of Egyptian Hieroglyphics. These symbols told stories and/or expressed various African Proverbs. These proverbs provide insight on how the culture viewed its societal experiences, values and ethics.

The language is known as Adinkra, created by Ashanti craftsman. These craftsmen created the symbol you see below:

San means: to return      ko means: to go      fa means: to look, to seek and take

The Sankofa bird has sought its past trail to take back what was lost, in order to protect its future! Sankofa literally means “to go back and get what was taken.” After the term made its way to the United States, African-American scholars coin the term to mean “remembering our past, to protect our future” within the African-American culture. Black History Month is a sacred month to remember, reflect and refocus our attention on celebrating African-American, African Diasporic, and African history made since the beginning of time. Make Africa Great Again! MAGA that!

Morning Scripture

Isaiah 40:22-31 (NKJV)

<sup>22</sup> It is He who sits above the circle of the earth, and its inhabitants are like grasshoppers, who stretches out the heavens like a curtain, and spreads them out like a tent to dwell in.

<sup>23</sup> He brings the princes to nothing; He makes the judges of the earth useless.

<sup>24</sup> Scarcely shall they be planted, scarcely shall they be sown,
Scarcely shall their stock take root in the earth,
When He will also blow on them,
And they will wither,
And the whirlwind will take them away like stubble.

<sup>25</sup> “To whom then will you liken Me,
Or to whom shall I be equal?” says the Holy One.

<sup>26</sup> Lift up your eyes on high,
And see who has created these things,
Who brings out their host by number;
He calls them all by name,
By the greatness of His might
And the strength of His power;
Not one is missing.

<sup>27</sup> Why do you say, O Jacob,
And speak, O Israel:
“My way is hidden from the LORD,
And my just claim is passed over by my God”?

<sup>28</sup> Have you not known?
Have you not heard?
The everlasting God, the LORD,
The Creator of the ends of the earth,
Neither faints nor is weary.
His understanding is unsearchable.

<sup>29</sup> He gives power to the weak,
And to those who have no might He increases strength.

<sup>30</sup> Even the youths shall faint and be weary,
And the young men shall utterly fall,

<sup>31</sup> But those who wait on the LORD
Shall renew their strength;
They shall mount up with wings like eagles,
They shall run and not be weary,
They shall walk and not faint.

Psalm of Praise

Psalm 50:1-15

(R) Be exalted, O God, above the heavens! Let your glory over all the earth be found.

The Mighty One, God the LORD, speaks and summons the earth
from the rising of the sun to its setting.

<sup>2</sup> Out of Zion, the perfection of beauty,
God shines forth.

<sup>3</sup> Our God comes, and does not keep silence,
before whom is a devouring fire,
round about whom is a mighty storm.

<sup>4</sup> God calls to the heavens above
and to the earth, that the people may be judged:

<sup>5</sup> "Gather to me my faithful ones,
who made a covenant with me by sacrifice!"

<sup>6</sup> The heavens declare God's righteousness, for God alone is judge!

(R) Be exalted, O God, above the heavens! Let your glory over all the earth be found.

<sup>7</sup> "Hear, O my people, and I will speak,
O Israel, I will testify against you.
I am God, your God.

<sup>8</sup> I do not reprove you for your sacrifices;
your burnt offerings are continually before me.

<sup>9</sup> But I will not accept a bull from your house,
nor a he-goat from your folds.

<sup>10</sup> For every beast of the forest is mine,
the cattle on a thousand hills.

<sup>11</sup> I know all the birds of the air,
and all that moves in the field is mine.

<sup>12</sup> "If I were hungry, I would not tell you;
for the world and all that is in it is mine.

<sup>13</sup> Do I eat the flesh of bulls,
or drink the blood of goats?

<sup>14</sup> Offer to God a sacrifice of thanksgiving, and pay your vows to the Most High;

<sup>15</sup> and call upon me in the day of trouble;
I will deliver you, and you shall glorify me."

(R) Be exalted, O God, above the heavens! Let your glory over all the earth be found.

HIV/AIDS Awareness

African Americans make up about 42% of all new HIV/AIDS cases in the United States. Out of the 42%, 31% of this population are males, while females make up the other 11%. The HIV/AIDS epidemic in the African American community has continued to be a significant problem; fortunately, HIV/AIDS diagnoses have decreased by 15% in the past decade.

Facts about HIV/AIDS

 HIV (human immunodeficiency virus) is a virus that attacks the body's immune system. If HIV is not treated, it can lead to AIDS (acquired immunodeficiency syndrome).

 There is currently no effective cure. Once people get HIV, they have it for life.

 Proper medical care can control HIV, and people with HIV who get effective HIV treatment can live long, healthy lives and protect their partners.

 If current rates persist, CDC projects that approximately one in 20 black men and one in 48 black women will receive a diagnosis of HIV during their lifetimes.

Why are Rates Higher in the African American Community?

 1 in 7 African Americans with HIV is unaware they have it. There needs to be more access to resources and education regarding HIV/AIDS.

 Poverty rates among African Americans are high. The socioeconomic issues associated with poverty, including limited access to high-quality health care, housing, and HIV prevention education.

 Stigma, fear, and discrimination may prevent African Americans from accessing HIV prevention and care services.

Black History: Trip to Ghana Reminded Me of Our Existence Long Before Slavery

by John Fountain

Imagine. If the ocean could cry. If the walls did cry. If the sands could speak. If the cells here in Cape Coast would try to tell the tale of blood lost, of tears shed. Of souls dead. Imagine...

These were the words I penned shortly after visiting the former slave castle in Cape Coast, Ghana, in 2007 — a hauntingly majestic white stone fortress overlooking the Atlantic Ocean. Standing on that side of the Atlantic upon this castle, where my ancestors began their shackled journey to North America, staring into waves that lapped at its shores, I was awash in Black history.

Moved in ways I had not been before by our story as African Americans, by our journey, which did not begin in 1619. In the humid dungeon, I could feel the human carnage, the volume of perished souls. I was staggered by the depth of darkness, by visions of Black bodies stacked, and imaginations of the thinness of the air, mixed with sweat, urine and feces. I could hear their cries.

Black history gripped my body and soul. And it left me almost breathless, certainly temporarily tearless. I felt lost, stunned silent, as I wandered through the belly of hell inside Cape Coast Castle. Cape Coast Castle was only part of my experience in Ghana. Simply breathing the air as I walked through its streets, into its markets, and otherwise encountered a sea of beautiful deep dark Black people, I felt, for the first time in my life, free among a people for whom my skin is not a sin.

I was not a Black man but simply a man. I was home. I inhaled the beauty of Ghana. Its splendor. Its pride. And it reminded me, spoke clearly to me, of our existence long before slavery. Of the time when we were kings and queens upon the continent from whose soil emerged the beginning of man. Not lost on me was that Ghana, in 1957, became the first sub-Saharan nation to gain its freedom from colonial rule, or that W.E.B. Du Bois is buried there, or that Ghana has been dubbed the mecca of the Black liberation movement and Pan-Africanism.

This much I vowed to myself while there: I would return to Ghana someday and bring my family with me. For I am convinced that every African American — even if not seeking to repatriate — must make pilgrimage to the Motherland. I hear her calling my soul.

I have no illusions. Ghana is not “Wakanda.” But imagine.

Little Known Black History Fact

Charles “Chuck” Harrison

The late Charles “Chuck” Harrison is one of the most important industrial designers of his time, and items that he’s either invented or designed have been impacting lives for over 60 years.

Charles Harrison Jr. was born September 23, 1931 in Shreveport, La. His father, Charles Harrison Sr., was a professor of Industrial Arts at Southern University. The family relocated to Texas where the senior Harrison taught at Prairie View A&M University before moving once again to Phoenix, Ariz. to work teach at the all-Black George Washington Carver High School where the junior Harrison attended.

After high school, Harrison studied at City College of San Francisco, thriving there despite battling dyslexia. He obtained a scholarship to the School of The Art Institute in Chicago (SAIC), graduating in 1954. Harrison was then drafted into the U.S. Army, working as a cartographer before resuming graduate studies and meeting his wife in Chicago. Harrison obtained his master’s degree in art education from the Illinois Institute of Technology.

In the ’50’s, Harrison attempted to work at Sears, Roebuck, and Company but was reportedly denied due to his race. However, one of his undergraduate professors put him to work and he did freelance design work. Harrison’s big break and one of his many notable career moments occurred in 1958 when he lead a team that improved the design of the popular View Master toy. In 1961, he was finally added to Sears’ staff, and in 1963, he revolutionized waste management by inventing the first-ever plastic trash can.

Harrison worked for Sears for 32 years, designing hundreds of items including sewing machines, toasters, lawn mowers and several household items. According to reports, he is also the first Black executive for Sears. Harrison retired in 1993, but went on to teach part-time at several universities across Chicago, including his alma mater, SAIC.

Chuck Harrison passed on November 29, 2018. He was 87.
